托福写作常见结尾模板：总结前文法

总结前文

（1）Overall, I feel like it is rare for an employee to spend their entire life at one company, and that it is only natural for companies to take better candidates as they come along.

（2）To conclude, work has a lot to do with the amount of time a person spends with their family, but if people are creative about using their time and modern technology they can overcome these problems and be close to their families.

（3）In conclusion, communication among family members is indispensable because it fosters kindness and healthy relationships between family members. But every family is different, and it is up to the parents to find a way to make communication easy and effective.

（4）Technology, then, seems to be driving human beings apart. Soon, we may no longer need to communicate with other human beings in order to do our work, entertain ourselves, or pursue an education. Machines will be the coworkers and companions of the future.
